In Cinque Bambini case:

Chancellor rules state owns tidal waterbottoms

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Land located seaward of a mean high water mark boundary where the tide ebbs and flows is the property of the State of Mississippi, based on a recent Chancery Court decision.

That boundary apparently can only be accurately determined by a marine surveyor.

However, all parties involved in the litigation expect the case will be appealed in State Supreme Court.

In a 36-page document Chancellor William L. Stewart of Gulfport and the Eighth Chancery Court District of Mississippi presents his legal findings and ruled in favor of the state after reviewing testimony and evidence presented in a lengthy hearing last year.

Cinque Bambini Partnership of Hancock County, several mineral and property owners, and Phillips Petroleum Co. sued the state some four years ago to establish a clear title to some 2,400 acres roughly bounded on the north and east sides by Jourdan River, west by Hwy. 603 and south by Bayou LaCroix.

The complainants contend based on land descriptions, property tax payment receipts, professional studies and a headlands consideration in the Public Trust Doctrine that they own the bottom of most relatively small waterways within their property boundaries.

The State Mineral Lease Commission several years ago leased mineral rights in that area to Saga Petroleum U.S., Inc. based on a Mississippi Marine Resources Council map published with the assistance of Gulf Regional Planning Commission in the early 1970's outlining state-owned land.

Saga is a co-defendant in the case. In the course of the trial, the map was found to be inaccurate and granted an accessive amount of land to the state. Studies conducted by the Mississippi and Bambini confirmed this fact.

Stewart writes, "This court is of the opinion, and so finds, that the 'ebb and flow' test is the appropriate one for application in this case. Further, that the inland reach of the public trust doctrine is to that horizontal line located at the intersection of the land with the water surface at the elevation of mean high water, wherever the tide ebbs and flows; and that said inland reach is determined in this case by the O'Hagan-Smith-Cole survey (Bambini and state studies) as combined."

The chancellor also ruled that the waterbottoms underneath two lakes dredged on either side of a 1-10 near Jourdan River to provide fill for the highway also belong to the state based on tidal ebb and flow.

The state's survey only claimed the original course of Bayou Enciente which was partially obliterated by the dredging.

Stewart finds the dredging and resulting lakes 'enhance' Bambini's littoral and riparian rights.

Waveland resident counters objections to girls home move

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

A Waveland resident who lives across the street from a proposed location for the Harbor House Girls Home is circulating a petition in support of the facility moving to her neighborhood. Jennie Mitchell, of Sidney Street Thursday reported she is seeking signatures for the petition in response to the Waveland Board of Aldermen's Tuesday decision to oppose moving Harbor House to a two-story home owned by Sidney Woods.

The board voted to oppose Harbor House's Waveland move, based on residents' objections raised at the meeting and a petition they presented with 97 names of people endorsing the opposition.

The State Department of Public Welfare-operated facility now houses eight homeless teenage girls at the old Gex home at the corner of Gex and Court Streets in Bay St. Louis, across the street from the Hancock County Jail.

Wallace Bradley, County Welfare Department director, recently said Harbor House's lease with McDonald Realty expires the end of this month when the firm plans to the building novating the building for rental office space and the facility would be moved rash of prisoner escapes.

Bradley Saturday revealed he has formally requested to be placed on the agenda of the Waveland Board of Aldermen's regularly scheduled public meeting at 7:30 p.m. May 19, to respond to the board's opposition and the citizen petition.

In a letter to Mayor John Longo dated May 7, Bradley stated, "I would appreciate this opportunity to tell the other side of the story."

"I live across the street from the Woods home and I have two teenage children and one pre-teen," Mitchell stated regarding accusations that the Harbor House youths would wrongfully

At Hancock landowners meeting

State mineral laws said unfair, unjust

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Unjust and unfair were adjectives frequently used by speakers in describing Mississippi's separate mineral ownership laws at a Thursday night organizational meeting of the Hancock County Landowners Association.

Some 150 people from all areas of the county and a variety of backgrounds attended the meeting at the Annunciation School gymnasium in Kiln.

Officers and executive committee members were elected to spearhead efforts by the organization to promote legislation returning all mineral rights to property owners.

State law presently allows separate mineral rights ownership.

Elected officers include Theresa Coleman of Firetower Road, president; Felix Famularo of the Bienville Community, vice president; Barbara Mendoza of Firetower Road, secretary; and C. J. Lee of the Leetown Community, treasurer; and Irion Bordelon of Bayou LaCroix, Advisory Committee chairman.

Executive Committee members are James Walthour, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Evers, Pete Dunhurst, Leo Davis, William R. Jackson, a Mr. Cordez, D.C. Smith, George James, David Brown, Louis J. Breaux III and IV, Gale Moran, Mary and Robert Shiyon, Frank Lee and Dorothy Campanelli.

Frank Lee of Leetown, Hancock County Farm Bureau president, endorsed efforts of the newly formed group and reported that farm bureaus statewide annually join in promoting legislation to repeal separate mineral ownership laws.

"One of the bad things about this type of effort is that you have to have support of local people all over the state before you get something done. People with no oil activity in their county don't even think about mineral rights," he explained.

"It's a mighty late date for something to be done in Hancock County with oil and gas production underway, but we still have to push for this legislation," Lee said.

"This is unfair to individual landowners and it's a sad state of affairs when someone realizes he doesn't own minerals," he stated.

Lee said the bureau has attempted to secure legislation to tax minerals or transfer their ownership to property owners after 10 years—similar to Louisiana and Indiana laws.

Buster Strahan of Picayune, one of the organizers of the Pearl River County landowners chapter and the state organization, stated, "We have to let our senators and congressmen know what we want. We need a strong statewide organization to get something done about these unjust laws."

"We want our minerals retained to go back to the taxpayers. I think the landowners have been a slave to this present state law too long," he said regarding the token tax stamp required for persons selling property to retain mineral ownership.

"If our politicians don't agree with us, we can elect people who will help us."

We want a show of force to let our legislators know what we want to do," Strahan stated.

The Picayune resident said the Pearl River chapter is the first county organization to form, Hancock is the second and hopes Harrison County will soon form its own group.

Bordelon stated, "Our organization has a big job. We have votes, but the other side has money."

He said the group would be fighting lawyers and large landowners.

Lawyers frequently secure mineral rights from clients instead of fees and large landowners sell small parcels and retain minerals, Bordelon reported.

"I think this is real bad for our kids. A

Police checking Bay man's death

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Local authorities are investigating the death of a 29-year-old Bay St. Louis man found on his bathroom floor Friday morning.

William Douglas Spears, 29, 423 Thomas Street, was found in the bathroom of his residence by his girl friend early Friday morning, Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson said.

Although Spears was rushed to Hancock General Hospital by the girl and some friends, he had apparently been dead for six to seven hours, Peterson stated.

"Our investigation has led us to believe that Spears apparently died from an overdose of drugs," The sheriff said.

Hancock Coroner Carl Banderet reported Saturday an autopsy was made and he is awaiting a report from the lab before an inquest will be conducted.

Peterson added, "During the investigation of the death, we secured a search warrant for 122 Boardman Avenue, and in the search found some valium and talwin which are both considered controlled substances."

"An arrest was made of Jake Maritta, 23, at the Boardman address and he is charged for possession of a controlled substance, in addition to a violation of probation from Harrison County. The parole violation resulted from a conviction of five counts of

BOMB'S INVENTOR

"Oppenheimer," the critically acclaimed seven-part dramatization of the life and career of controversial American physicist J. Robert Oppenheimer, the inventor of the atomic bomb, can be seen on "American Playhouse" at 9 p.m., Tuesdays, beginning May 11, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

In the seven one-hour episodes, the series charts his rise and fall over 15 years, from his early days as a radical professor at Berkeley, through his setting up and operating the secret bomb laboratory built in the hills of Los Alamos in New Mexico.

The series explores his dilemma over how, even whether, the new atomic weapon should be used. It covers the post-war years, when Oppenheimer's resistance to further development of nuclear weapons made him powerful enemies among the armed forces, among politicians and among some of his fellow scientists. It was the enmity of these people and their exploitation of his left-wing past that finally resulted in the security hearing that ended his career.

Sam Waterston stars as Oppenheimer, the man who has been blamed for the excesses of the atomic age and blessed for some of its virtues. Oppenheimer is viewed by many as a man who stands in solitary and tragic grandeur in American history.

Board to discuss Gulfview air conditioning with PTO

By BRENT MACEY

Members of the Hancock County School Board Saturday agreed they will discuss the purchase and installation of air conditioning units at Gulfview Elementary School with members of the Gulfview Parent-Teacher Organization at a future board meeting.

A date for that meeting pending notification of the PTO members.

The Gulfview PTO raised money for the units, but apparently is unwilling to turn the money over to school officials for purchase of the units.

At a Saturday meeting in the county school offices on Court Street in Bay St. Louis, board members questioned what procedure should be utilized to purchase and install the units.

The amount of money raised by the PTO for the units was unknown by board members.

Irene Ritchie, president of the Gulfview PTO, did not attend the meeting and was unavailable for comment following the meeting.

Board Attorney Joseph Gex advised the board members not to allow the PTO members to seek bids for the job or supervise installation of the window units.

He noted the board could be held liable if the units are not installed properly in the some 16 classrooms.

He recommended the board supervise the installation.

Gex noted Parent Teacher Association members at Hancock North Central Elementary School purchased air conditioning units at that school last year.

Board member Louie Ladner, who is an electrician, donated his time and labor to have the units installed.

The board attorney noted the same procedure could be followed at Gulfview.

However, other items such as who will pay the school architect for electrical plans, also remained undecided at the Saturday meeting.

Electrical plans for installation of the Gulfview units were presented to the board by John Mykolyk of Pass Christian, school district architect.

Board member Johnny Banks stated he thought the PTO members should pay architect fees for the job.

Board member Woodrow Ladner recommended the issue should be discussed with the PTO members first.

Also at the meeting, the board took no action on an amended school budget presented by Superintendent Billy Sills.

The board members requested more time to review the budget and recessed until Tuesday at 9 a.m. to continue discussion on the matter.

In other business, Sills informed the board that cafeteria supplies totaling more than $10,000-per-year will continue to be bid yearly by the school district.

Items less than $10,000 yearly must be bid monthly by a cafeteria supervisor due to a new federal regulation.

In the past the board bid all cafeteria supplies yearly.

Also Saturday, Sills informed the board all three elementary schools have been accredited by both the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools and the Mississippi Accreditation Commission.

In other business, the board:

- Approved a new part-time guidance counselor position at Charles B. Murphy Elementary School at no cost to the district;
- Approved employing Lynette Randall as cheerleader sponsor at Hancock North Central High School for the 1982-83 school year;
- Approved granting a supplement of $175 to both Bonnie Allison and Christer Austin after approving the teachers as cheerleader sponsors at Gulfview;
- Approved employing Loretta Barnes as cheerleader sponsor at C.B. Murphy. Cheerleader sponsors are awarded a $350-per-year supplement to their salaries. Sills noted Allison and Austin agreed to split the duties and the supplement.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE—Hancock County landowners volunteer to serve on the newly-formed Hancock County Landowners Association Executive Committee at an organizational meeting Thursday night at the Annunciation School popular slogan today is 'do you know where your children are.' Ask yourself 'do you know where your minerals are?' he stated.

"We (landowners not possessing minerals) get all the taxes, but no benefits," Bordelon added. He urged those attending to contact neighbors to drum up support for legislation.

"Let's get a bill before the legislature for the people to vote on," Bordelon recommended.

Famularo reported he owns a parcel of land in which 41 other people own mineral rights.

He also said when the State Highway Department purchased property from him for a road right-of-way that all mineral rights on that land had to be transferred to state ownership.

"If you want your minerals we're going to have to tell our senators and congressmen. Either the politicians will help us or we'll say the hell with them," Famularo stated.

Mike Coleman of Firetower Road said at the Pearl River landowners meeting a young man reported he only owned the first six inches of top soil.

"What you have here is a law that a lot of us feel is unjust and unfair to all people who don't own mineral rights," he stated.

"Nothing is forever is my personal opinion. I think time is running out on people who just own mineral rights and we are going to get these back," Coleman added.

Theresa Coleman said, "If we have a united effort throughout the state this will allow us to strive as an organization."

Mike Coleman noted, "The Farm Bureau is behind us, but we should be doing everything to support ourselves. We're the ones who are going to have to fight for our rights in Jackson."

Several other people attending the meeting offered ideas for dramatizing the organization's quest for total mineral ownership.

John Wilks said, "You folks are getting into a seven-year battle. The first thing I'd like to do is, you can't charge rent for minerals, but you can go to court and sue for your minerals."

Harbor House.....

Influence neighborhood children. The woman described the Harbor House girls as harmless teenagers who are not delinquent, but are neglected children who are either rejected by parents or taken by the state from detrimental home situations.

Mitchell stated, "Most of the people who complained at the meeting have no children of their own."

Regarding a resident's statement at the meeting that people in the neighborhood would have to lock their homes if Harbor House would locate there, Mitchell said, "No matter where you live today you have to lock your home."

Tidal waters.....

fishing where the tide ebbs and flows, Stewart states, "The public's right of pascary" (fishing) exists in all such areas. Such rights were settled by Magna Charta. Thereafter the Common Law rule was and is that all subjects of the realm have a right to fish in the sea or any creek thereof or any tide river, the shore and soil of which place of fishing belong to the king or to the lord of the manor."

Bambini did not challenge that rule in the hearing.

In reference to Bambini's contention that state ownership of waterways should be limited to legally navigable streams, the chancellor cited in this advanced technological age that only

Chuck Farve suggested landowners who own a portion of their mineral rights should refuse to lease to brokers.

Regarding a charter and by-laws for the group, the landowners voted to table adoption of the two documents now in use by the Pearl River chapter so the executive committee can review and offer suggestions for consideration by the association.

Coleman Saturday said the committee will meet Thursday at 7 p.m. at the Farm Bureau building on Hwy. 603 in Kiln to review the documents.

Strahan reported Sen. Martin Smith of Poplarville offered to assist the Hancock chapter in finalizing by-laws and charter documents at no cost to the group.

He suggested the Hancock association charge the same annual dues as the Pearl River landowners which is $1-per-mineral-acre the property owner does not own.

He said that the chapter would retain 20 percent of dues with the state organization receiving the remaining amount.

Strahan added the organization could not collect dues or solicit funds until a charter is finalized and adopted by the group.

"The Woods' place would be a nice home for the girls," she stated.

In reference to the objectors' statements that the Woods home is in poor condition, Mitchell reported repairs are underway at the building.

She also said a portion of the house's interior was recently renovated when the Woods previously planned to locate a funeral home in the building.

The neighbors also thwarted plans for the funeral home.

Meanwhile, Bradley Friday reported he has not found another building suitable for housing the teenage girls.

inches of water can be considered navigable for giant hovercraft, shallow draft waterjet-powered boats, airboats, swampbuggies and giant watercraft which run on narrow metal strakes just below the water's surface.

"Added to technological development are unanticipated changes, such as increased awareness of the value of the estuarine areas, both from an ecological and environmental point of view," Stewart stated.

"Our courts thus cannot ignore the present day realities of life and create an arbitrary or unbending test, or tests, in attempting to solve water problems," he adds.

Bits 'n pieces

The week of May 9-15 is National Hospital Week and we feel it is a time to remember the staff of Hancock General Hospital.

Hancock General has, as the saying goes, 'come a long way' during the past year with increased services for the public.

Many new doctors have joined the medical staff, as well as increases in personnel in other areas of the hospital.

The physical appearance of the interior of HGH has been upgraded and several of the patient rooms were redecorated and new equipment was added.

HGH is also sponsoring a 'Vial of Life' program which can be of great help to anyone on medication.

We hope none of us will need to go to the hospital as a patient, but it sure is comforting to know the services are available.

We have heard a lot of discussions this week about the petition being filed at the Waveland Council's meeting protesting placement of the Harbor House in Waveland near US-90.

We have received several telephone calls about the matter. One was from a neighbor of the proposed house telling us she is going to get a petition in support of Harbor House moving to Waveland.

Another subscriber wanted to know just what kind of people we are, not wanting Harbor House in our area. He feels we should not object to the proposed location.

We have had several conversations with Wallace Bradley, Hancock County Welfare director, in recent months about Harbor House and he has had problems locating a place large enough to accommodate the girls.

A statement made by a resident of the proposed area at the council's meeting still has Bradley trying to figure out what welfare official told her 'I would have to lock my house if those girls move here.'

In addition, the petition presented to the Waveland Aldermen referred to the residents of Harbor House as 'wayward girls.' The residents of Harbor House are not 'wayward girls,' but rather the children of broken homes, primarily.

We do not know the answer to Harbor House's problem, but we hope something will be worked out in the immediate future.

We would like to suggest our lady subscribers attend the 'Rape Seminar' sponsored by the Bay St. Louis Police Department on Thursday night.

The program is to be given by the Mississippi State Highway Patrol and should contain some vital information for all residents.

The place will be Bay Catholic's Cafeteria across from Bay City Hall starting at 7 p.m. We hope you will mark Thursday on your calendar.

It is real good news to all residents with the starting of the repairs of Beach Boulevard.

It has been in such bad condition for several years and we are glad everything has finally come together.

We know our Hancock County Board of Supervisors have spent a tremendous time in trying to secure financial help in repairing the storm damages. Several times they supposedly had monies and later found there were no monies.

Reservations are coming in for the Armed Forces Day Special Program at the Long Beach Ramada for persons interested in hearing Admiral J. B. Mooney Jr. on Thursday, May 14.

The program sponsored by the Naval Oceanographic Headquarters in Hancock County and the area's chambers of commerce should be of interest to many of us.

Admiral Mooney will discuss the 'Mississippi Gulf Coast' Home of the Naval Oceanographic Center.

For reservations, call Ms. Catherine Sheed, Navy Oceanographic Office 688-4312. A cash bar starts at 6:30 p.m. followed by a buffet dinner at 7:30 p.m.

The Bottom Line

Candid Answers To Your Questions About Advertising and Business Topics.

By S. GALE DENLEY

You have talked about ad strategy several times, but how does it really work? How often should the strategy be reviewed and changed? I Don't Know How To Start.

Dear DKHTS: Let's quickly get the second part of your question out of the way.

Any strategy should be under constant review. It should be modified or changed whenever any change in the market—whether due to competition, customer expectation, economic conditions, or whatever—indicates the need for a new or different approach.

A classic example is offered in the experience of an Italian candy company which markets "tic-tac," a hard candy mint packaged in a plastic container.

The US by storm in the 70s, quickly achieving a 4th place, 12 percent market share.

But 60 percent of the consumers were children, primarily sold through a strategy of "fun."

But children's taste proved once again and customers were lost to newly introduced bubblegum products. Also hurting sales was a new imported candy-mint advertised as sugar free.

The result was a fall by "tic-tac" to 9th place with only a two percent market share.

Then the strategy was changed. Some of the "kid" flavors were dropped, and the product was repositioned as an adult breath-mint.

Advertising pointed out that the non-sugar competition didn't mean low-calorie—that each "tic-tac" had one and one-half calories, compared with nine each for the non-sugar competition.

The company now has a six percent market share and is in fifth place among the hard-candy companies. The strategy change came later than it should have, but apparently was not too late for the company's survival.

CHARITABLE CONTRIBUTIONS GIVE BUT GIVE WISELY!

Attorney General Bill Allain cautions consumers to be aware of various schemes operating throughout Mississippi involving the solicitation of money by individuals claiming to represent various fictitious charitable organizations.

Allain states that Mississippians are charitable people, but in some instances, however, our charitable natures are taken advantage of by those who solicit for phony charities in order to enrich themselves.

The present laws offer consumers little protection against such operators, and individual caution remains essential.

Here are some helpful tips to keep in mind before giving:

- Never contribute without having the solicitor show identification for both himself and the charity.
- Never contribute to a charity you don't know anything about.
- Never allow yourself to be pressured into making a contribution.
- Don't feel that you have to make the contribution on the spot; ask for literature about the charity and use this to check on its authenticity.
- Don't be fooled by names; very often a crooked charity will have a most impressive sounding name.
- Don't give merely because of "tear jerking," "hard luck" stories told by solicitors. Find out how the charity benefits those for whom it is collecting funds.

—If selling merchandise such as candy or magazine subscriptions, ask how much goes to the sponsoring organization.

—A check should be made out to the organization instead of to an individual.

NEWS FROM THE GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

More than 7,500 economically disadvantaged and underachieving youth are expected to participate in summer programs sponsored by the Governor's Office of Job Development and Training (GOJDT), a division of the Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs.

Approximately 6,500 will be served in the statewide Summer Youth Employment Program (SYEP) which is designed to expose youth to the "working world" with actual on-the-job experience. This eight-week program, open to 14 to 21-year-old youth, will provide participants with 32-hour-week jobs at minimum wage in libraries, county offices and other public and private non-profit enterprises.

"We believe that having young people in real life work situations will help them to understand what is expected of them when they enter the fulltime work force and, at the same time, give them a taste of a career they may want to pursue," said Steve Halliburton, GOJDT program operation division director.

More than 1,000 young people are expected to be served by the Youth Employment and Training Program (YETP) which is designed to give them a sampling of various career fields. Working through a university, six public junior colleges, a private college and a high school, the GOJDT will use vocational advisors to enable program participants to sample several career fields.

Open to 15 to 21-year-old youth, the program in mock-ups, will cover six weeks. This youth will be given an allowance of $200 per month but unlike the wages paid in the SYEP program, this allowance will not be subject to deductions for tax or retirement.

Typically, a week will be spent in each course selected by the participants. For those who are in need of general educational assistance, sessions will be offered in remedial education and General Educational Development (GED) studies in addition to the career courses.

"We recognize that determining a career to pursue can be one of life's toughest decisions," Halliburton said. "So many young people make this decision without much understanding of the career they've selected. Also, they're often not aware of the options.

"Through the summer programs, we hope that we can help participants make career decisions that will be rewarding to them and allow these young people to make their best contributions to society," he said.

"Beyond helping these young people, the programs can help all of Mississippi," Halliburton said, "by giving our state individuals who are ready to accept their roles in the work force with a genuine work ethic. We believe that the summer programs can do much to help break the cycle of unemployment caused by unqualified or unwilling workers."

Coast Community CDU story wins hospital contest award

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following story is an award-winning entry from the first "Hospital Story" contest sponsored by the Mississippi Hospital Association. It is a true story and is printed in today's Sea Coast Echo to help celebrate Hospital Week in Mississippi, May 9-11.

I stood at the back of the Chemical Dependency Unit and watched as visitors kept pouring through the door. Men and women, young couples holding hands... a variety of people—all from different walks of life.

Some hospital personnel came and went as their break time permitted.

It was not exactly a normal day for the Chemical Dependency Unit at Gulf Coast Community Hospital, but indeed a special day. Three years had passed since the unit opened, and this was their first Open House. Invitations had been sent to "graduates of the unit," AA groups, Halfway House and other social service organizations.

I had been there earlier in the day, and found an atmosphere of warmth and happiness, nursing personnel in their white or white uniforms, program consultants and patients alike were extremely friendly, and seemed earnestly glad to welcome the visitors who are rarely invited to the unit.

The excitement mounted as the group of visitors arrived for the evening program and fellowship.

The Unit itself is a six-room facility that offers the patient complete privacy and is secluded from the other sections of the hospital. It is a sanctuary.

The decor is pleasing to the eye, and a beautiful scenic mural which dominates one complete wall, suggests a peaceful illusion of tree-lined country roads.

A "punch... painting" tapestry was hanging on the wall, beautifully done by patients who had been taught "punch painting" by their nurses.

It was a familiar message, full of philosophy... "God grant me the serenity to accept the things I cannot change, Courage to change the things I can, and Wisdom to know the difference."

Soon, the lights dimmed for the film, "Romance to Recovery." More and more people had come. Chairs were scooted together and about 60 managed to squeeze in. There were hugs for those not seen for a while, and "first names only" were used.

The film, in semi-animation, concerned an alcoholic father and the effects on the family throughout a lifetime. Not a new story to those watching, but their attention was profound.

When it ended, a young woman whom we shall call Ann, stood up and was introduced to the group by a counselor.

Slight of build, and unpretentious, Ann was not an accomplished speaker, but she had told the same story many times, and knew it well... she had lived it!

There hadn't been too many happy years for Ann in her childhood, or even as she grew up. Her mother and father had divorced when she was five, and those early years had not been too great... her mother was an alcoholic. She moved with her daddy after the divorce, and it was not long before he remarried, and she acquired four "step-brothers."

They moved to the country, and things were alright for a while, but Ann did not get along well with her step-mother. Her folks drank, but kept the house washed away—not "good" enough though, because Ann's father was finding it and drinking came naturally.

She suffered a bitter disappointment when the real man who had been her father died. She was left with a step-father who was not the man she needed.

Ann was finally able to find a man who was not a drinker, and she was able to get a job. She was finally able to find a man who was not a drinker, and she was able to get a job.

Ann was finally able to find a man who was not a drinker, and she was able to get a job. She was finally able to find a man who was not a drinker, and she was able to get a job.

Ann was finally able to find a man who was not a drinker, and she was able to get a job. She was finally able to find a man who was not a drinker, and she was able to get a job.

It wasn't long until her daddy and step-mother broke up and they moved to the Gulf Coast—in fact, they moved a lot—her daddy married again, and as Ann grew, so did her bad habits.

Ann was fairly close to one of her brothers who had a pretty good influence over her—but she was headstrong and weak in her problems. Watching Ann speak, she had overcome her previous shyness and shaky voice, and she continued speaking openly and candidly about her experiences.

She quit school six weeks before graduation—mixing drink and drugs caused her to lose touch with reality, she had no values, and she thought life had no meaning.

Once again, she went to her brother in north Mississippi, who encouraged her to finish high school and then enter junior college, but Ann was still looking for a good time—and found it in dancing and heavy drinking.

Again, she got in too deep and wound up in a mental hospital. Two weeks later, she was out, only to go on a four month binge of drugs and booze—enough to kill a well person, and she was sick.

Somehow, she met a fellow that meant something to her. She instantly felt like he was her security blanket, but it wasn't that simple for Ann.

They married but Ann's problems were far from over. They struggled for years, until finally Ann reached the point where he insisted she seek AA, and professional help.

It was a little over a year ago. It was not easy for Ann or the ones who loved her. "I came to the 'Chemical Dependency Unit' about a year ago," she said, "I guess this has just about been the best year of my life—and probably one of the hardest."

"I know I don't ever want to experience any more blackouts," she said, "and I am sure don't want to go to any more of those mental institutions for crazies. For awhile, it was hard enough to stay sober for a minute at a time, but I did and now I can take it a day at a time. I'm working my way up to a week."

Ann was finally able to find a man who was not a drinker, and she was able to get a job. She was finally able to find a man who was not a drinker, and she was able to get a job.

"Usually there are 15 minutes of compulsion. You sweat that out—a minute at a time—before you know it the 15 minutes are up. When you realize there are 'hands reaching out to you to help you,' you can make it."

"The first week wasn't easy," she said remembering, "you have the shakes so bad. And the second week is not much better but I can remember my last drunk and I don't want another one. If you can't remember your last drunk, then you haven't had it yet," she went on. "Life is still not a rose garden, but I can see, and smell the roses."

"I know there's help for those who want it...now I can even help others some, I can't keep you sober because you've got to do that yourself, but I know how to talk to you."

Looking around the room, at the various expressions of those who had similar problems and stories to tell, she said, "Friends, it isn't easy but you gotta hang in there."

She took a deep breath and said, "There were times I didn't have any faith in God or anyone, nor the strength to go on, but because of God's help, my husband's encouragement, and my friends in the hospital, I'm making it now."

She looked around the room again, a tear was in her eye, but a smile was on her face. "Believe me friends, it's worth it."

It seemed as though a deep sigh passed simultaneously around the room, or perhaps there were those remembering their own close calls.

As the applause filled the room, I slipped away, and I found comfort in the knowledge that we have such a place to offer to these patients and that our personnel have such an influence on "bringing these people back to life."

There are benefits to giving up smoking, even after a lung cancer diagnosis, according to a recent broadcast sponsored by the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center and The Prudential Insurance Company.

Researchers at the National Cancer Institute studied 112 patients with small-cell lung cancer, all long-term smokers, during the course of their treatment. The patients who had stopped smoking sometime earlier responded best to cancer therapy. But even those who quit when cancer was diagnosed survived longer than those who continued to smoke.

According to cancer specialist Dr. Martin Cohen, "If an individual stops smoking at the first diagnosis of lung cancer, he or she will have a better chance to be a long-duration survivor and to be possibly cured with treatment. The chance of cure for someone who continues smoking, however, is virtually zero."

YOU AND YOUR PET

Dogs Head Pet List;
But Don't Forget Chameleons
Those Mississippians looking for a companion that strikes a somewhat different pose than a dog or cat might want to consider a pet that can change colors and look at your nose and toes all at the same time.

The chameleon, a reptile member of the lizard family, is the choice, and it ranks as one of the many exotic pet suggestions offered to Mississippi young people who join 4-H clubs.

Kenneth Cook, a 4-H youth development specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, says dog care dominates among pet care projects offered in Mississippi 4-H, but dogs are by no means the only choices young people have.

Exotic companions, ranging from the tropical parakeet to the desert gerbil, are all on the list for young people to choose. Cook says many young people are choosing them.

He said more than 2,300 youngsters joined the dog care project in 1981, but another 1,900 chose a pet other than dogs. Turtles, toads, frogs, and goldfish were all on the list.

Cook also has authored a publication for young people interested in exotic pets. The publication is titled "Pet Care Project" and is free on request as Publication 1183 from any of 82 County Extension Service offices in the state.

Among the exotic pets, the chameleon has to be one of the most interesting choices. It is a pet that can change its colors, doing so by using the particular mood the reptile is in at the moment and combining that with light and temperature.

The pet chameleon also can look up with one eye and down with the other at the same time.

"The chameleon also has another interesting feature. It has a brittle tail that is easily broken off," Cook says. "If this happens, don't worry; it will grow a new one."

Cook says chameleons are sold in pet stores and are adapted to Mississippi's climate. It has a body about three inches long, four legs, a long tail, short teen and a layer of scales.

The male chameleon has a dewlap, an extra fold of skin on the throat.

"When it meets another male chameleon or when it is in danger, the chameleon will puff out this dewlap," Cook says.

"When given proper care, these little reptiles do well in captivity and become quite tame."

The novice chameleon owner may think the new pet is just to watch.

"No so," Cook says. "Gain his confidence by leading him with a string around the room. Teach him to jump through a hoop, climb a ladder and seesaw," he says.

Cook says chameleons also are easy on the food and housing bill. He says they can go without food for two weeks.

"During the summer, place a piece of fruit in the terrarium to draw insects," Cook says. "In the winter, they eat grubs, mealworms or fruit flies."

In the way of housing, Cook says the reptiles thrive in a large-mouth gallon jug made into a terrarium or a terrarium.

"Provide water by sprinkling lukewarm water on the plants in the terrarium each day," he says.

Hancock General joins Vial-of-Life program

Hancock General Hospital joins with hospitals all across the country in celebrating National Hospital Week, May 9-15.

The observance is built around the theme, "You've Got a Friend in the Hospital."

"We think the 1982 National Hospital Week theme reflects the role of our hospital and its staff as friends in helping community residents stay healthy," said Phil Langston, hospital spokesman.

"We are working to reduce the need for hospitalization through our progress in both prevention and cure of illness and injury."

Local hospital activities include an awards banquet honoring long term employees with special recognition given to one person for long term dedicated services. Also, the Hancock General Hospital will kick off their "Vial of Life" program.

During the week, the hospital also is reminding people to be their own best friend by taking care of their health and by learning how to use the hospital wisely to be well.

National Hospital Week is sponsored each year by the American Hospital Association and its 6,000 member hospitals to foster better communication and understanding between hospitals and their patients, employees, and the communities they serve.

The hospital will kickoff its "Vial of Life" program Monday.

The program, which has been sponsored by other Gulf Coast hospitals, has been available through the Hancock County RSVP, but HGH has purchased some 1,000 of the standard pharmaceutical vials and is encouraging county-wide distribution of the program.

The vial, which is stored on the top shelf of one's refrigerator door contains an information form which provides pertinent medical information, including blood type, medications, allergic reactions, equipment the patient uses, as well as the patient's doctor's name.

This information may be vitally useful in a home emergency situation. If the patient lives alone and is found unconscious, or family members who are present are too confused or distraught to think clearly, the information in the "Vial of Life" may provide the necessary data which enables paramedics to make an initial evaluation in a minimal amount of time. The information form is then sent with the patient to the hospital.

The refrigerator door was chosen as the standard storage place because it is relatively fireproof and most homes have them.

A self-adhesive sticker on the refrigerator door alerts emergency personnel to the vial.

Starting next week, the "Vial of Life" material will be available at the front information desk in the Hancock General Hospital lobby. Also, the Hancock County RSVP center will have a supply of the vials.

Other groups or persons interested in helping distribute the vials should contact Phil Langston, administrator, Hancock General Hospital, 467-9081, extension 175.

Bay Council considers repairing Beach Road

By BRENT MACEY
Representatives from Gulf Regional Planning queried the Bay St. Louis City Council Tuesday about whether it would be interested in contributing money to repair Beach Boulevard.

Ned Boudreaux, manager of transportation at Gulf Regional, told the council some $195,000 in Federal Urban Aid System Funds is available to Bay St. Louis.

He noted Beach Boulevard is a FUAS road and the council could spend that money on having it repaired.

Currently Hancock County is attempting to repair the road alone by using $265,000 grant from the Coastal Energy Impact Program with an additional $52,000 in local matching money.

The repair project was bid at $461,241 by Southland Enterprises and the county is some $149,000 short of having enough money to pay for the job as bid by Southland.

Boudreaux suggested the council combine its money with the county and Waveland in order to repair as much of the road as possible.

Waveland has $16,641 of FUAS money, Boudreaux said.

Although the council agreed that the idea might be a good one, several council members were uncertain. If Bay St. Louis actually had $195,000 available for such a project.

Councilman James Thriffliey III stated he thought some $100,000 of the total $195,000 is slated for repairs to Main Street from Beach Boulevard to St. Francis Street.

Thriffliey suggested the Boudreaux check the amount of money available for the project and requested Boudreaux also talk with FUAS engineers and State Department of Transportation engineers to determine if the money could be combined with the county's CEIP funds.

Thriffliey also requested the Boudreaux have plans for the work drawn up.

Boudreaux said he would talk with the engineers but he first wanted to know if the project would be appealing to the City Council.

Jeff Taylor, a planner from GCRP, stated he thought Bay St. Louis and Waveland might be able to contribute their FUAS money for over-laying the road.

"We might be able to use the county CEIP money for base preparation," he said.

Council president Wilmer Seymour stated "the project is worth looking into."

He stated he thought the county, Waveland and Bay St. Louis could work together to have the road repaired.

Death.....

illegal drug prescriptions. He is being held in the Hancock County jail with no bond," Peterson allowed.

"We strongly feel Spears' death is drug related," Peterson said.

Peterson and Hancock Investigator Delbert Seay are investigating the Spears' death in addition to investigating the Marlita case with Hancock Investigator Alvin Ladner, Bay St. Louis Chief of Police Douglas Williams and Bay Patrolman Harris Boudreaux.

WOOD'S GROCERY GROCERY BURGLARIZED

Hancock Investigators Ladner and Seay are investigating the burglary of Wood's Grocery in Pearlington which was discovered robbed Friday morning.

"Entry was made by the removal of iron bars and the breaking of a window," Sheriff Peterson stated.

An undetermined amount of cash, cigarettes, fishing tackle, knives, assorted meats, microwave oven, and a 38-caliber Smith and Wesson pistol with a two inch barrel are among the items reported missing.

An inventory is now being taken, Peterson added.

ATTEMPTED MURDER

Jeff Wayne Carver, 22, General Delivery, Pearlington was arrested Thursday night and is lodged in the Hancock County Jail with no bond according to Sheriff Peterson.

Peterson said, "Carver allegedly was seen taking a shotgun from a truck parked in front of a Pearlington business Thursday night. The owners allegedly pursued him through the woods and the victims signed a warrant that he (Carver) allegedly fired at them while they were chasing him."

"Hancock Deputies Ronnie Cuevas, Glen Strong and David Garcia apprehended Carver at his residence and the shotgun allegedly taken was found behind his house in the woods," Peterson added.

Carver is charged with burglary of an auto, attempted murder, public drunk and violation of probation.

Delbert Seay is in charge of the investigation.

FUGITIVE CAPTURED

A tip was received from Gulfport police that a person wanted in the State of Oregon was working at a business in Bay St. Louis.

Investigators Ladner, Hancock Deputies Cuevas and Glen Strong arrested George Earl Wolf, 41, of Oregon on felony warrants issued by Oregon for driving under the influence, two counts of driving with suspended license, and escape second degree.

Ladner said Wolf has waived extradition and is in jail with no bond awaiting pick-up by Oregon authorities.

SUSPECTS ARRESTED

Four persons were arrested Thursday afternoon in connection with the burglary of a Nicholson Avenue residence according to Waveland Chief of Police Donald Dorn.

Dorn said, "We received a call telling us a resident's neighbor's glass was broken out of a door at about noon. Patrolmen Veronica Hattabaugh and John Wilkerson Jr. answered call."

"Information received on the description of an auto seen in the yard by Officer Hattabaugh led to the stopping of a vehicle on the Waveland-Kiln Cut-Off Road and the arrest of two adults and two juveniles," Dorn added.

William Hampton Neal, Jr., 19, 518 deMontluzin Ave.; and David Craig Chazez, 19, of Route 1, Box 12, both of Bay St. Louis and two juveniles were arrested Dorn said in connection with the burglary.

The chief says police found some beer missing from the home and later found a color television set at the residence of one of those arrested when it was reported missing by the burglarized home owner.

Dorn attributes the fast arrests to citizen involvement.

Waveland Investigator Sandra Henley is in charge of the case. Neal and Chazez are scheduled to appear before Waveland City Judge Lucien Gex for a preliminary hearing. The juveniles have been turned-over to the Hancock Youth Court.

BAY DRUG RAID

Hancock Investigator Alvin Ladner, Deputy Glen Jackson and Hancock Auxiliary Deputy David Murtagh raided a residence across the street from Bay Junior High Friday night and found a small amount of marijuana and drug paraphernalia according to Ladner.

"We have been receiving complaints about the possibility of some drug activities at the residence," a search warrant was issued from Justice Court Judge John Chazy, Ladner allowed.

(Robin King, Alvin Ladner, 21, and Larry Gex, 21, both of Uman Avenue, Bay St. Louis, were arrested on tickets for possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia," Ladner stated. Some 40 black capsules found in the raid are being sent to the Mississippi Gulf Coast Crime Lab, Ladner added.

CASH TAKEN FROM REGISTER

Waveland Investigator Robert (Poochy) Tartavouille says the cash register of the Target Oil Station on US-90 had $700 taken in a burglary Friday.

"A black male allegedly grabbed $700 from the register and fled on foot," Tartavouille said.

The case is being investigated by Tartavouille and Investigator Sandra Henley assisted by Waveland Patrolmen Chuck James and John Wilkerson Jr.

RECEIVING STOLEN PROPERTY

Troy Simpson, 18, is being held in the Hancock County jail in connection with receiving stolen property according to Hancock Investigator Alvin Ladner.

"Simpson was arrested Friday night at the intersection of US-90 and Hwy 603, Waveland. He is being held in connection with receiving stolen property in connection with the recent theft of an auto from the Waveland Resort Inn's parking lot," Ladner added.

Investigating the case are Ladner, Waveland Investigator Robert (Poochy) Tartavouille assisted by John Wilkerson, Waveland patrolman; and David Murtagh, Hancock auxiliary deputy.

DROWNING INVESTIGATION CONTINUES

T.P. Naylor, senior investigator of the Coastal Bureau of Criminal Investigation of the State Highway Patrol, and Waveland Investigator Robert (Poochy) Tartavouille spent several days during the past week in Panama City Fla., trying to place the movements of James Alexander Saho whose body washed up on the Waveland Beach on April 30.

Tartavouille said Saturday, "We were able to place him at a Panama City Rescue Mission where he ate breakfast on April 28. That is as close as we have come in placing his movements prior to his body being found on April 30."

Waveland Investigator Robert (Poochy) Tartavouille said Sunday, "We have not yet been able to place him in Panama City, but we are continuing to work on it."

He said Sunday, "We are continuing to work on it."

IT'S ROUGH WORK, BUT SOMEONE'S GOT TO DO IT—Make-up artists preparing Miss USA Pageant contestants for location filming at Diamondhead this week had more volunteers than they knew what to do with. GREAT PERFORMANCES

A television adaptation of "The Girls in Their Summer Dresses" by Irwin Shaw can be seen on "Great Performances" at 8 p.m., Monday, May 10, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

In the story, starring Carol Kane and Jeff Bridges, a young married couple set out for a stroll through New York's Greenwich Village one sunny day. They're in love, but their affectionate banter gradually uncovers the husband's ongoing affair of the eye—he can't help looking at all the beautiful women passing by.

This will alleviate the necessity of standing in long lines to purchase tickets during the hot summer months and will facilitate entrance into the museum.

MR. AND MRS. WADE STAEBLE STEVENS

Stevens, Smith wed at Christ Episcopal

Christ Episcopal Church in Bay St. Louis formed the setting for the April 24 exchange of vows between Susan Merle Smith of Bay St. Louis and Wade Staehle Stevens of Waveland.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fredrick Shilt of Bay St. Louis. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. H. Philip Williams of Waveland.

Rev. Charles Johnson officiated at the 1 p.m. double ring ceremony. Musical selections were provided by vocalist Mark D. Smith, brother of the bride, accompanied by organist Mrs. Ingrid Ling of Waveland.

The church was decorated with large arrangements of white pompon mums, figi mums, baby's breath, leather leaf fern and palm greenery. Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in the wedding gown worn by her mother, fashioned of ivory satin and featuring a portrait neckline, long tapered sleeves and fitted bodice enhanced with Alencon lace embellished with seed pearls. The softly gathered skirt extended to a chapel length train. A Juliet caplet of Alencon lace held a tiered veil of bridal illusion with a blusher veil.

She carried a cascade of white orchids, rosebuds, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Mary Kay Hubbard of Bay St. Louis was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Patricia Vernon and Margaret Smith of Nashville, Tenn., sisters of the bride; Kitty Henry of Baton Rouge, La. and Bettye Cuevas and Pat Lucas of Bay St. Louis.

The attendants were attired in formal gowns of dusty blue Swiss embroidered voile featuring off-the-shoulder princess styling. They carried bouquets of white orchids, stephanotis and greenery with light and dark blue ribbon streamers.

H. Philip Williams of Waveland served as best man. Groomsmen were George Mayfield, Joey Maneri and Chris Lagarde of Waveland; Jim Henry of Baton Rouge, La. and Doug Williams of South Carolina.

Ushers were Rick Smith of Atlanta, Ga., brother of the bride; Tony King of Gulfport, and Jeff Boos of Starkville brothers-in-law of the groom.

The bride's mother chose for the occasion a floor length shirtwaist gown of rosewood chiffon fashioned with long sleeves and matching satin trim. A white orchid corsage completed her ensemble.

The mother of the groom was attired in a floor length gown with beige skirt and cream colored top, featuring a long sleeved cream chiffon jacket enhanced with beige silk embroidery at the neckline, front and cuffs. A beige ribbon belt encircled the waistline.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride's table was overlaid with lace and an embroidered linen cloth. Pompon chrysanthemums, baby's breath and leather leaf fern decorated the base of the cake, which was topped with a miniature replica of the bride's bouquet in white rosebuds and baby's breath.

The groom's cake table was adorned with a white linen cloth and held a small bouquet of blue and white silk flowers and baby's breath.

Assisting at the reception were Suzanne King, Lisa Boos and Kathy Stevens, all sisters of the groom, and Lori Moffitt, cousin of the bride.

For traveling to Aruba in the Netherlands Antilles, the bride chose a jade green two piece linen suit with matching striped silk blouse. Bone accessories and an orchid corsage completed her ensemble.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Guy Allen of Houston, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. William Moffitt and Lori Moffitt of St. Petersburg, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. William G. Moffitt of Montgomery, Ala.;

Mr. and Mrs. A.Y. Holliday of

The Garden Clubs of Mississippi, Inc. are sponsoring a day-long seminar on Horticulture at the University of Southern Mississippi-Gulf Park in Long Beach Thursday, May 13.

John Davis, area horticulture specialist, is to be featured speaker and instructor.

Mrs. John R. Newkirk of Bay-Waveland Garden Club, seminar chairman, explained that the theme of the seminar is "The Day in the Garden" featuring basic horticulture—the how and why of gardening.

In addition to lectures, a plot of the Gulf Park Campus will be dug up, cultivated, landscaped and planted to give a complete horticulture lesson.

The day begins at 9:30 a.m. on campus under the spreading branches of the famous "Friendship Oak", and continues at the demonstration plot.

There will be a break for lunch at the Friendship Oak. Participants are requested to bring their own lunch. Beverages will be furnished by the garden clubs.

Pass VFW auxiliary donates flags

Opening ceremonies for the Dixie Youth Baseball season in Pass Christian took place Monday May 3 with Otis Gates, committee member for the recreation association acting as master of ceremonies.

Rev. Cornelius Sexton from Our Mother of Mercies Catholic Church gave the invocation.

The four teams and their coaches were introduced.

A flag ceremony took place with commander Jesse Morris of VFW Post No. 5931, and Catherine Morris, youth and Americanism chairman for the auxiliary, carrying the flag. The Star Spangled Banner was played, and the flag was presented to the Dixie Youth Baseball League.

Lula Vella, chairman, and Katherine Morris took fresh strawberries, cake shells, and shipped topping so that the residents might enjoy fresh berries while they are in season.

Post No. 5931 and the auxiliary invited Mayor Gordon Bishop of Pass Christian to proclaim May 1 as Loyalty Day, as passed into public law on July 18, 1958.

Commander Jesse Morris, auxiliary president Mary Fedele, and Americanism chairman Catherine Morris met with the mayor on April 27, at which time he signed the proclamation.

The VFW and auxiliary made the effort to encourage citizens to fly their flags and remember their country with love, on that day.

The auxiliary visited the residents of the Harrison County Home for the Aged on Tuesday, April 27.

Lula Vella, chairman, and Katherine Morris took fresh strawberries, cake shells, and shipped topping so that the residents might enjoy fresh berries while they are in season.

Billy McDonald, Beat 3 Supervisor, donated six dozen baseballs to the league, and threw out the first ball.

Seed grown geraniums are gardening alternative

A veritable revolution in breeding has taken place among seed-grown geraniums since the first true variety was released in 1965.

Geranium fans now have more than 40 varieties to choose from by several breeders and Jim Perry, horticulturist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, says the list of varieties is growing each year to this entirely new class of geranium.

Perry says 1965 was the year that breeders introduced the first seed-grown geranium that could come true to color.

"The first one, 'Nightingale', was followed in 1966 by the All-America winning 'Carmel' and 'Lola', he says.

Perry says the phenomenon about the introduction of seed-grown geraniums is that they can be grown from seed, which is a major advantage over cuttings.

"The first one, 'Nightingale', was followed in 1966 by the All-America winning 'Carmel' and 'Lola', he says.

Perry says some major differences will remain between the two types of geraniums.

"Cutting-grown varieties, especially in many of the lighter shades, offer a subtlety of coloring not yet found in many of the seed geraniums," Perry says. "Although single-flowered types are available, it is for their double and semi-double flower trusses that many of these geraniums are grown."

Perry says the main pattern on the leaves are desirable, and the compact plant growth habits to the gardener's taste.

"Certain varieties known as 'fairy leaves' and grown primarily for their foliage are only available in cutting-grown geraniums," Perry says. "Cutting-grown varieties are early to flower in the spring, and seed-grown varieties are late to flower."

Perry says by contrast, seed-grown varieties have a tendency to be more upright and bushy than cutting-grown varieties, which are more trailing.

"The first one, 'Nightingale', was followed in 1966 by the All-America winning 'Carmel' and 'Lola', he says.

Perry says some major differences will remain between the two types of geraniums.

country's major geranium planting season," Perry says. "However, small plants in flats also are available to plant out in large quantities at reasonable cost."

Perry says seed-grown geraniums have strong, bright colors and their garden performance is unexcelled, especially from mid-season through fall, when cutting types often lose their zing.

This is partially due to hybrid vigor, partly a result of clean, disease-free plants, almost assured when grown from seed," he says.

Perry says both types of geraniums are good indoor plants, especially blooming on a sunny window sill under otherwise adverse conditions.

Outdoor geraniums are amazing for dramatic displays in window boxes, Perry says. "They take equally well to window boxes and combined with petunias and other trailing plants, cutting-grown geraniums will bloom more heavily if roots are constricted, making mixed planting even showier."

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

"I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly." —John 10:10

By Shawn Murphy

MINISTER, BAY ST. LOUIS CHURCH OF CHRIST

Mother, how many precious little feet have you washed lately? How many cups of cold water have you given to thirsty little throats? Did you know you were doing a great work? You are a minister.

In the 13th chapter of John, Jesus washed His disciples' feet as an example of humble, loving service. And He told his followers: "Anyone who gives even a drink of water to one of these little ones...will by no means lose his reward." (Matthew 10:42)

Jesus was teaching greatness through service in a way that mothers follow every day. Remember when He said, "Whosoever will be great among you, let him be your servant," (Matthew 20:26, 27)? I would not be surprised if he had a dedicated mother in mind.

How do mothers minister? Paul says in Titus 2:4, "Teach the young women...to love their children." It's one of the Bible's only direct and specific instructions to mothers about duty to their children.

Motherly love is one of God's greatest gifts. Because it is from this standpoint of love from which she gives her child all that he or she needs in life. It is out of this 'powerful' love that true discipline comes forth. And it is out of this 'all-conquering' love that she gives her child the tremendous emotional support that one needs to develop as one ought.

If I were to list three things that my mother gave me that have been most important in my upbringing they would be these: affection, acceptance and approval.

I say 'affection' because my mother has never been afraid or ashamed to demonstrate her love for myself or my brother. Whether it be a look, a touch, a smile, a kiss or a hug she makes sure that we are loved.

The second aspect of a mother's love that is so important is 'acceptance.' I can remember still knowing I was loved even if I didn't do something worthy of meriting love.

This is indispensable for a child's healthy emotional development. And do you know what? We never outgrow the need for this kind of acceptance.

The third part of this trilogy of motherly love is 'approval.' I can remember always getting praise as a reward for good behavior. It is by far a better reinforcer of good conduct than material rewards. Without recognition for good behavior a child is likely to get discouraged and quit trying.

Dr. Haim Ginott in 'Between Parent and Child' stresses the importance of expressing approval in the right way. "Praise effort and accomplishment, not personality or character. The wrong kind of praise can cause feelings of guilt or anxiety. The judged are anxious, even if the judgment is complimentary. 'You did a good job' is more helpful praise than 'You are a good girl.' Accept a person. Approve an action."

The ministry of motherhood, what a special role it is! It is true, isn't it? 'The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world.' Mothers, if you only knew the power that is at your fingertips. To a large degree you decide whether or not your child will enjoy the abundant life that Jesus has to offer.

Don't let a night go by that you don't sing to him "Jesus loves me," because He really does!

Those who fulfill the loving ministry of motherhood by no means lose their reward. God bless you, Mom.

Mrs. Giles was the wife of the late Rev. C.R. Giles.

Three Methodist churches to honor the late Mrs. Giles

The United Methodist Churches of Pearlington, Waveland and Bay St. Louis on Mother's Day are honoring the late Mrs. Annette Peters

Giles of Pearlington 'who gave a life of devoted service to children in need of love care and devotion.'

Rometta Roberts of Waveland, program chairman, said Mrs. Giles was honored by President Richard Nixon on Feb. 10, 1972 as the nation's top volunteer worker.

"She loved people and children. She died in 1946 and is sadly missed in our churches and in our communities," Roberts noted.

"We all don't have money, but we do have time to help some one else in need. Look around you. When you see things happening that aren't right, talk to God about it," Mrs. Giles often admonished.

Mormon Church reports 24 percent growth in Bay-Waveland area

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints has reached the milestone of five million members.

Officials of the church's member and statistical record division estimate church membership surpassed the five million mark during the first few days of April.

Bishop R. Daniel Sones, local leader of some 311 members of the Mormon Church says the growth of the Church in the Bay St. Louis-Waveland area has been good with a 24 percent increase in membership since 1978.

"Due to the growth we've enjoyed in the past four years there has been a branch organized in Pearlington and presently we are in the process of adding more than 5,000 square feet of classrooms and chapel area to the Waveland Ward," Sones said.

"We expect our growth to continue at an increasing rate and we attribute this growth to the simplicity of the basic principles of the Gospel such as the ability to answer life's basic questions: Where I came from? Why I'm here? Where I'm going?

The members are aided in their responsibility of "Every Member A Missionary" by two full-time missionaries, Elders Kevin Stitt and Bob Miller, and three stake missionaries, Marty Homer, Harry May and Bernard Ramakis.

All missionary activities in the local area are coordinated by Bernard Ramakis, ward mission leader.

MEDICAL JOURNAL

According to a recent broadcast sponsored by the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center and The Prudential Insurance Company, millions of Americans experience some form of food poisoning every year.

Dr. Edmund Zottola, a food microbiologist at the University of Minnesota, notes that many victims of food poisoning mistake their illness as intestinal flu. "The symptoms of food poisoning, such as vomiting, diarrhea, slight fever and retching are very mild to somewhat severe, and bear a distinct similarity to symptoms associated with intestinal influenza," said Dr. Zottola.

"According to Dr. Zottola, the incidence of food poisoning can be minimized by applying care and common sense in food handling and storage. "Some foods are more susceptible to contamination than others," said Dr. Zottola. "Intimate foods, those that are prepared with a lot of hand labor, are those that usually cause problems."

A special thanks goes to those members, knights who gave their time unselfishly. They include:

Some contributions are still coming in and will probably continue to do so for the remainder of the week. Anyone who has not sent a contribution in as yet should do so promptly.

A final report should be ready for publication early next week, according to Paul N. Seckso, drive chairman.

'Small' will dominate housing of the future

High interest rates and spiraling construction costs have all but guaranteed that the house of the future in Mississippi will be a small one.

"In Mississippi and across the South, builders already are building smaller homes," says Frances Fortenberry, a housing specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

She says some builders in the state also are confirming that it is the smaller houses that are selling.

"Houses will be smaller, but not down-graded," Miss Fortenberry says. "People buying can't afford the price of a big house but they still will want many of the amenities of bigness."

She said the smaller houses of the future will likely be less than 1,400 square feet in size.

"This house will need to be planned, furnished and decorated differently to make the space seem larger," she says. "This can be done effectively."

Miss Fortenberry offers some planning suggestions for the prospective small home buyer in Mississippi:

—Look for an open one or one with low partitions that allow people to look through one space to another.

"The result is a feeling of spaciousness," she says. "Windows also allow people to borrow the sense of space from outside."

Colors should be light and the major amount of color in a room should be one color.

"Use different shades of colors to avoid monotony," she says. "Bright colors can be used as accents."

—Scale of furniture is important for making a room feel spacious. "Carefully and realistically scale furniture to make the smaller house feel comfortable," Miss Fortenberry says.

—Storage is vital. "A crowded or cluttered room will seem smaller, so plan good storage to prevent this," she says.

—Plan multi-uses for space. "Few families can afford space for a seldom used formal dining room," she says.

"Dining is less formal for most families, so the eating space can be incorporated into another room or the room used for dining also can be used as office, playroom, sewing room or even guest room."

—Vaulted ceilings and clerestories create spaciousness.

"Small can be elegant, elaborate and attractive," Miss Fortenberry says.

"Careful planning is the secret, so start long before you are ready to build or buy."

Okra—versatile vegetable for summer cooking

No summer vegetable garden is complete without the versatile okra plant.

"Okra can be cooked in a variety of ways," says Eleanor B. Coats, food and nutrition specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

"It is popular in soups, stews or gumbo," Coats says. "Fried, baked, steamed, boiled, or chilled, okra has a place at the dinner table."

"Fully ripe okra pods contain round brown seeds that even can be ground and used as a coffee substitute."

Okra grows rapidly in warm climates. Pods should be cut from the plant when they are about 3 inches long and have the best flavor. Larger pods become tough and fibrous as they mature.

"When buying okra, always choose pods that are crisp looking and 2 to 4 inches long," Coats says. "Avoid those that are limp and old or streaked with brown."

"Remember okra in your plans for canning or freezing and keep a supply year round. Okra is an interesting vegetable to help homemakers out of a cooking rut."

For recipes and canning suggestions, contact your county home economist and ask for information sheet No. 762.

Designed and built to detect, track and destroy incoming missiles, the Aegis ships will provide the primary protection for the Navy's aircraft carrier battle groups, well into the 21st Century. Ingalls, the lead shipbuilder for four new classes of Navy warships in the past decade, has six Aegis cruisers under contract.
